Synonymous with summer, watermelon is not just the base of a great daiquiri or fresh feta salad, but also a skin-care ingredient to have on your radar. The latest in the long line of Korean imports, watermelon is now having its moment on the world stage.

The serious buzz around this juicy pink fruit can be traced back to Korean beauty brand Glow Recipe's Watermelon Glow Sleeping Mask. Utilizing watermelon's hydrating powers, the lightweight sleeping mask quickly gained a cult following for its skin-softening and glow-giving properties.

For a DIY (and bargain) approach, you can simply use chilled slices of watermelon as a makeshift face mask. Ideal for sun-parched or irritated skin, the watermelon will instantly cool and soothe. Or, if you fancy something a little more hi-tech, turn to one of a number of products enriched with watermelon. From an exfoliating skin polish to a brightening toner, these are our favorites...

After garnering a cult following and multiple restocks, the latest addition to the Glow Recipe watermelon collection is here — and it's blissfully travel-friendly. Expect skin to be hydrated from morning 'til night, bright, and de-puffed thanks to this jelly sheet mask, which comes saturated in a cooling watermelon serum.

Glow Recipe Watermelon Glow Jelly Sheet Mask, $8.00, available at Sephora.
