

EBONY

12 Eco-Friendly Beauty Products That Are Good For Your Skin

Tools to make Earth Day every day.

BY JOANE AMAY, APRIL 23, 2017

COMMENTS

We should be mindful of what we put on our body as well as what we put inside of it. Parabens, phthalates, and sulfates are some of the toxic compounds that we should avoid. They not only harm us but they also harm the earth. Plus, with all the sophisticated, chic packaging around and superior-quality sustainable ingredients that actually deliver, being green no longer means we have to settle for natural beauty goods of a lesser variety. So to help us celebrate our gorgeous planet, we've rounded up a medley of environment-friendly primers that are as pleasing to our body (and eyes) as they are to Mother Earth. Going green never looked so good

Image: Courtesy of Youth To The People

Youth To The People

This green brand is made with 100% recyclable packaging and cold-pressed vegan ingredients. The superfood blend of kale, spinach and aloe along with ultra-emollient sunflower oil can be found in its best-selling, wrinkle-reducing eye cream.

Youth To The People Age Prevention Superfood Eye Cream ($35, sephora.com)

ultra-emollient sunflower oil can be found in its best-selling, wrinkle-reducing eye cream.